- Conflicts
 - Google doc where we write a formal letter to Emily Morgan written by all of us
 - This program exists for us and for our benefit and it gets overlooked
 - Choreography conflicts with classes
 - So many of us have classes during rehearsal times
 - We need credits to graduate and we can't get them when we have classes at the same time
 - Double majors also have so many conflicts
 - Only some people and specific classes can be in pieces and it takes away our sense of community
 - For someone who is supposed to help us her response lately is "I can't help you"
 - Double standards
 - Inconsistencies
 - Professors need to communicate with each other and with us better
 - It can't be pick n choose
 - Rules need to be clearly stated on the dancer agreement
 - Responses to us about our health and our safety are not okay
 - How are we supposed to feel safe?
 - Favoritism

 - Professional way and solution and suggestions

- Choreographers should get to choose and make a decision for their dancers and their piece
- Absence accountability
- The things that they excuse and the things that they don't do not make sense
- Punishing us for taking care of ourselves and making decisions about our own bodies
- "Our safety come first" but then when it comes to it were told "no"
- She says something and then takes it back later
- We're told we have choices but then are given no choice
- Each professor goes to a different level of extremes with their favorites and how they show their favoritism
